Problem Statement:

The idea is to develop a software for an online hotel room reservation system. The system is built to handle multiple types of clients like tourists and members, and perform actions like reserve, check-in to and check-out from rooms. The program also suggests travel packages/offers based on locations, season, pricing etc. This application acts as a one-stop solution for both management and tourists alike, to ensure a smooth experience for everyone within the walls of the hotels.
